Oscar Guptil, who had been visiting at Santa Rosa, came up on the noon train Saturday and accompanied Mr. Coombs home. It was Mr. Guptil's son who was killed at Littleriver.

Victim of Ptomaine Poison

Charley Kent had a narrow escape from serious poisoning while in Oakland last week. He ate heartily of crab salad at a restaurant and was seized with violent pains while at the table. He hurried to the street but became unconscious and fell to the floor as he entered a cigar store. When he recovered consciousness he was in a hospital under the care of nurses and physicians. He recovered completely in a short time but has been congratulating himself ever since on his close call.

WAS KILLED BY A PILE DRIVER

The Mendocino Beacon says: We received word yesterday afternoon just before going to press of the accidental death of Frank Guptil on the Littleriver wharf earlier in the day. He was engaged in helping drive new piling in the repair of the wharf. The big hammer had been raised to its position at the top of the tower and a strong piece of new timber, which had been in use for some time for the purpose, was placed beneath the weight to hold it in position. The hammer had been in place fully ten minutes when without warning the stick supporting it gave way and came crashing to the bottom.

The sick struck young Guptil with great force and knocked him senseless and he never regained consciousness, dying a few hours later.

The young man was aged about 20 years and leaves a father, a brother and a sister.

Law Violators Punished

On Saturday west of Willits, Deputy Game Warndes Ingalls and Schaffer, arrested two men for killing quail and deer. The prisoners gave their names as J. Hess and T. Cherry. Hess shot quail and was fined $25 and Cherry shot deer and was also fine $25. The case was before Judge Pennington.

Senator Sanford Writes From Sacramento

Sacramento, June 12. —After ten days of strenuous work the extra session of the legislature is at an end and most of the remedial legislation proposed has been enacted into law and awaits the Governor's signature. If ever a legislative body worked hard and faithfully this one did. Both houses worked day and night in order to get through as quick as possible and give an impetus to the rehabilitation of San Francisco.

The Mendocino legislators succeeded in getting a $30,000 appropriation for the Mendocino state hospital. The bills for all other institutions were pruned to a considerable extent, but the bill for our hospital was raised instead of being cut down, the only instance of the session.

There has been little or no politics at this session, as it had been convened for a specific purpose. The Democrats were invited into the Republican caucus to help faciliate routine work and worked as hard to shape matters as the most veteran Republican. There is little politics in the legislature at any time after the election of a United States senator. Each member is rated according to his ability and if he is a hustller he obtains results, otherwise he does not.

Just a little politics cropped out last Friday when I offered an amendment to the corporation tax bill, however. My amendment provided for a graduated license tax upon corporations instead of a flat rate of $20, regardless of the amount of business done by the corporation. It seems to me that the graduated scale is the only equitable and just way of dealing with this matter. According to the Republican plan a little corporation of county farmers will pay as much license tax as the United railroads. According to my proposed amendment each will pay in proportion to the capital stock invested—"equal and exact justice to all and special privileges to none."

After adjournment a little state politics was talked. Governor Pardee desires a renomination and has the field against him. His most formidable opponents are Congressman Gillett and Warren Porter. Pardee has an organized machine while the others are workings disjointedly. It looks like Padree to me.

On the Democratic side a number of available men have been suggested. The most prominently mentioned, however, James D. Phelan and Thomas J. Geary. The opinion expressed here by politicians is that eather Phelan or Geary can defeat Pardee.

Congressman Bell is stronger here than he has ever been and it is generally conceded that he will easily defeat Duncan McKinlay this year.

McKinlay snubbed President Beard of the Sacramento Developement Association, back in Washington last month and will lose thousands of votes by his discourtesy.

Dick Beamer will again make the race for the board of equalization. Judges Shields, of Sacramento, McLaughlin, of Plumas, and Wilson, of Humboldt, will probably try for the Appellate bench. They would greatly strengthen the ticket.

All of the Ukiahites that are located here are getting along nicely. Chas. Cunningham is manager of the John Breuner company. He has about thirty people working in his department, among whom is Henry Pearson.

Mrs. Sanford and I leave today for San Francisco and hope to reach home by Friday or Saturday. There is no place like Ukiah after all.

FINAL SUMMONS OF WHIT HENLEY

Whitcomb Henley, one of the oldest pioneer residents of this county and a member of the Henley family, famed in the political history of the county, answered the final summons at Agnews last Friday.

He was born in Indiana in 1844, and came to this county in 1865 with his father and brothers, the former being just appointed the first Indian agent at Round valley. The father and brothers accumulated much valuable property in the county, and at one time the Henley family was one of the wealthiest in Mendocino.

The senior Henley had represented his district in Indiana in Congress, and after he served as Indian agent for a number of years he was appointed Collector of the port of San Francisco. Whitcomb served as a member of the Legislature from this district one term, being elected in 1884. Personally Mr. Henley was a man of rare attainments and broad learning. He was a born leader and was possessed of pleasing social qualities. He was a member of Covelo lodge, F. and A. M., and Ukiah Chapter, R. A. M.

The remains were interred at Covelo Wednesday under the auspices of the Covelo Masonic lodge, and there was a large outpouring of old friends and neighbors to pay their last tribute of respect. He leaves a wife, who is teaching school in the Philippines and a son, George W., who is in China in the employ of the government.

Officers Bloom in New Togs

Chief of Police DeMerritt and Nightwatchman Beatty have blossomed out in their new regulation police uniforms, which were prescribed by the trustees some time ago. They have received considerable good natured joshing from their friends on their metropolitan appearance. It was amusing to see how the officials acted on their first appearance. DeMerritt waited until about 9 o'clock one night before he would show up in the new outfit and then he made the rounds of the town and got the few on the streets and in the saloons used to the sight when but few were around. Both officers think their salaries should be raised if they have to ware the uniforms and put up with the attending chaffing.

PROSPERITY OF A GREAT ORDER

The fifty-fourth session of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows' grand lodge of California convened at Santa Cruz last week, Grand Master W. W. Phelps of Riverside presiding.

Messages of condolence with the California Odd Fellows in the late disaster in San Francisco were read from R. K. Wright of Allentown, Pa., grand sire of the soverign grand lodge; grand masters of Kentucky and Virginia and other grand lodges all over the country.

About 1000 delegates were in attendance.

Grand Master Phelps' report shows a net gain in membership during the past year of 1756, making a total membership of 38,317 on December 31st. The Rebekah degree had a net gain of 1624 and has a total membership of 26,815. Since January 1st the Odd Fellow's membership has been increased to 40,636, in pursuance of the 40,000 campaign augmented by the grand master. Nine new lodges were instituted during the year at Sterling City, Huntington Beach, South Pasadena, Coalinga, Hemet, Redondo, San Francisco, Needles and Holywood.

The state Rebekah assembly opened its session in the Congregational church with 400 delegates present, a larger number than has been present on the opening day for some years.

DAY A VICTIM OF BUNCO MAN

Smooth Stranger Swindles Accommodating Resort Owner

John Day, the well-known owner of the Eel river resort that bears his name, is the latest victim of the oily-tongued stranger who would have a check cashed, merely as an accommodation until he could get funds from below. As usual, in such cases, John came out second best in the transaction and some valuable experience is all he has to show for a board bill for several weeks' entertainment at his resort and about $150 in hard coin advanced the stranger.

The man gave his name as J. G. Scott and showed up at Ukiah several weeks ago on his way to Day's resort. He had evidently scented the genial John as a victim from afar. He claimed New York as his residence, and John felt good at learning that the fame of his resort had penetrated to the metropolis of the distant east. The stranger was a hail fellow well met with all about the place and was soon firmly established in the confidence of the entire neighborhood. He had entertaining expreiences to relate and fortunate indeed considered each one whom he selected to hear his wonderful tales of adventure. He claimed to be a high salaried correspondent of the Associated Press, and undoubtedly he had run across some of the work of his co-laborers and concluded that there must be something in our climate that was a wonderful stimulant to the imagination. He appeared to be an adept at fiction at any rate, which in a way sustained his claim as an Associated Press correspondent.

After a few weeks he complained of his funds running low and lamented his inability to get his checks cashed because the Ukiah banks wanted to charge an excessive discount. Rather than submit to such an outrage he would borrow the money first, and borrow he did. He did his borrowing from Mr. Day. Only for a few days of course, until he could hear from the city. There was some unaccountable delay, and rather than have his friend wait longer for the money coming to him he would take a run to the city and straighten the matter out and bring the coin right back. He went to the city—and that is the end of the story. After waiting patiently several weeks Mr. Day has sworn out a warrant for the fellow's arrest and Sheriff Gibson is using his utmost endeavors to locate him, but with little hope of success.

Wendling Resident Disappears

L. C. Coon, formerly of Albion, but who has recently been running a saloon at Wendling, is missing and fears are felt for his safety. Coon has aparently been partially unbalanced for some time, and last Saturday he took his rifle and went into the woods. Since then nothing has been seen of him, although a party of searchers have been looking for him almost continuously since. He had talked a good deal about an imaginary enemy and there seems little doubt that he is insane.

Baseball Next Sunday

The San Francisco Bulletins will play the Ukiah team at the local grounds next Sunday at 1:30 o'clock. Every effort will be made to insure a quiet and enjoyable game. Come out and see the home boys win. The game will be called earlier than usual on account of the visiting team having to get away on the excursion train.

Branscomb Will Celebrate

Not In Any County.

The city of St. Louis is not in any county. It is an independent municipality equipped with all the machinery of county and city government. It has its own circuit and criminal courts, its own grand jury, jail, etc. The circuit attorney is the prosecuting officer of St. Louis. Until 1876 St. Louis was the county seat of St. Louis county, but in that year the city was completely separated from the county, so that it is now as independent subdivision of the state. Clayton, a few miles west of the city, is now the courthouse town of St. Louis county.—St. Louis Republic.

The Jersey Cow.

The Jersey cow is a small animal, and therefore her maintenance ration is small, while a relatively large part of her feed goes to profit. She is a good milker, often a perpetual milker, and ordinarily not dry more than one or eight weeks in a year. She has an extremely long period of usefulness in the dairy. Five years cover the profitable work of the average cow. The Jersey produces until fifteen years old. Many are profitable when eighteen to twenty-one years of age.—Farmer.

The Other Way.

"Aren't you afraid that horse will run away with somebody?"

"Friend," said Broncho Bob, "it ain't nothin' in Crimson gulch for a hoss to run away with a man. It's when a man tries to run away with a hoss that there's danger." — Washington Star.

Sorrow of It.

Husband (during the spat)—Anyway, I'm not afraid to say what I think. Wife—No, I suppose not, but you ought to be ashamed to.—Detroit Tribune.

RICHARD BURBAGE.

He Was a Great Actor and Shakespeare's Leading Star.

March 16, 1618 or 1619, Richard Burbage, player, died at Shoreditch, London.

The first of the great English tragic actors, Burbage was in every way worthy to head the long roll of England's famous players. The son of an actor, the friend and companion of Shakespeare, it was through him that many of the heroes of the dramatist first spoke to the eager playgoers who thronged the Globe theater. He was the original of Romeo, Hamlet, Lear, Othello, Macbeth, Shylock, Richard III, and many other of Shakespeare's leading characters, and his name stands next to that of the great poet in the licenses for acting granted by James I. in 1603 to the company of the Globe theater.

His powers as an actor were not his only claim to distinction, for he was also a successful painter. The fame of his abilities held a prominent place in theatrical tradition for many years, a poem in his honor, dedicated to one of the great players of the day, being written as late as the time of Charles II.

His death, which was probably the result of paralysis, caused the poets to turn their thoughts to his successful career, and it is from the numerous elegies then written that most of the information concerning him must be gathered. Few players have ever had the good fortune to be so well liked by the dramatists of their time, and all praised him, one even lamenting that his death "hath made a visible eclipse of playing."

A shrewd, careful man in his business affairs, Burbage left an estate producing a yearly income of £300, a large sum for a player in those days to bequeath to his heirs. Beloved and respected by all, he survived his great master by only a few years, his grave bearing the simple, expressive epitaph, "Exit Burbage." — London Saturday Review.

Talent.

The world is always ready to receive talent with open arms. Very often it does not know what to do with genius. Talent is a docile creature. It bows its head meekly while the world slips the collar over it. It backs into the shafts like a lamb.—Holmes.

Not Well Enough For Hospital.

House physicians, when they wish to empty a bed of a chronic case, will welcome the new and original excuse contained in the following letter: "Dear Sister—When next the doctor attends mother, will you please ask him to dismiss mother, as she does not feel well, and oblige, yours truly, ——."—London Hospital Gazette.

OLD COASTER PASSES TO HIS REWARD

On Monday, June 4, 1906, Eli Ferguson died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Robert Dickie. Deceased had been under the care of a physician for the last month and succumbed to heart failure.

Eli Ferguson was born in Wayne county, West Virginia, on December 9, 1827. He came to California 41 years ago and followed the occupation of farmer. He was the father of a large family and lost his wife some years ago.

The funeral took place Wednesday from the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Dickie, Rev. J. W. Edgar conducting the services. The remains were laid away in Evergreen cemetery in the presence of a large number of friends and acquaintances.—Point Arena Record.

NORTH COAST NEWS BUDGET

Fort Bragg, June 12.—Fort Bragg is determined to let the outside world know that such an incident as having a good portion of the town shaken down and half of what was left burned down is not sufficient to disturb their enterprise and push. We have decided upon a good old-fashioned barbecue along with our fourth of July celebration and will invite the entire county to be our guests on that occasion. The committee has secured subscriptions to the amount of over $700 and there is more in sight, not to speak of the celebration committee's income from the letting of privileges, etc. It will no doubt be a successful affair from every standpoint.

The fete given by the ladies of the Fort Bragg relief committee last Saturday was a great success in every way, the attendance being large, not only from this city but from Mendocino, Glen Blair and other places. The receipts were correspondingly satisfactory.

The Woodmen of the World held their regular annual memorial services at the Baptist church last Sunday. Rev. Sturtevant preached the memorial sermon.

Prof. Martin and family have taken their departure for Portland, Oregon, where they expect to reside in the future. Mr. Martin has been an employee at the company's store so long that it will seem strange to not see him in his accustomed place behind the desk.

The local dramatic company is to give a drama here on the evenings of July 3d and 4th. "A Noble Outcast, or Jerry the Tramp," has been selected by the company. In this play our local players achieved a marked success on a previous occasion.

The Fort Bragg baseball team went to Albion Sunday and crossed bats with the Wendling team. They brought home the Wendling boys' scalps alright, the score being 5 to 4.

A sharp shock of earthquake was felt here last Thursday afternoon. It did no damage, being just sharp enough to keep us from forgetting how the pesky things feel.

Mrs. W. B. Ward has gone to Nebraska to visit her parents. Her two children accompanied her.

A number of the new buildings built to take the place of those burned in April have been occupied already and others are well on the way.

Why Suffer From Rheumatism?

Why suffer from rheumatism when one application of Chamberlain's Pain Balm will relieve the pain? The quick relief which this liniment affords makes rest and sleep possible and that alone is worth many times its cost. Many who have used it hoping only for a short relief from suffering have been happily surprised to find that after a while the relief became permanent. Mrs. V. H. Leggett of Yum Yum, Tennessee, U. S. A., writes. "I am a great sufferer from rheumatism, all over from head to foot, and Chamberlain's Pain Balm is the only thing that will relieve the pain". For sale by J. R. Mathews Pharmacy.

ACROSTICS AND ANAGRAMS.

They Have Been Known Since the Days of the Psalmist.

We find that the acrostic is the most ancient form of puzzling mankind. Acrostic is Greek for a number of verses the first letters of which form a word, sometimes a name and sometimes a sentence. The final letter may form a word, or, as Addison tells us, the letters will even run down the center of the verses as a seam. The Hebrew poets often made their verses run over the entire alphabet. Twelve of the psalms are written on this plan, the most notable being the One Hundred and Nineteenth. This has twenty-two divisions, or stanzas, corresponding to the twenty-two letters of the Hebrew alphabet. Each stanza is formed of eight couplets, and the first line of each couplet in the first stanza in the original Hebrew begins with the letter aleph, the second commences with beth, the third with gimel, and so on through the alphabet. The English divisions of the psalms are called after the Hebrew letter that began the couplets. It was also customary to compose verses on sacred subjects after the fashion of Hebrew acrostics. This was done with a view to aid memory, and such pieces were called abcedarian hymns.

The riddle is also of ancient origin. The Proverbs of the Bible, or sayings attributed to Solomon, are often in the form of riddles. Was it not the queen of Sheba who proposed riddles to Solomon? The Koran, the scriptural book of the Mohammedans, also contains riddles, as do some books now in existence, written in Arabic and Persian. The ancient Egyptians also propounded riddles, and one of the seven wise men of Greece, who lived in the sixth century B. C., was celebrated for his riddles in verse. Homer, the Greek poet, according to a statement in Plutarch, died of vexation at not being able to solve a riddle. In the middle ages riddles were encouraged for amusement on winter nights in the baronial hall and also in the monastery. In later days some of the most brilliant men of letters contributed to the list of riddles.

The anagram, or transposition of the letters in words or sentences, was much in vogue in Greece in the olden times. The Cabalists, or Jewish doctors, thought that the anagram always pointed out a man's destiny, and if his name written backward or transposed in any way spelled a word with meaning they firmly believed it a revelation. The flatterers of James I. of England proved his right to the British monarchy as the descendant of the mythical King Arthur from his name, Charles James Stuart, which becomes "claims Arthur's seat." The best anagrams are those which have in the new order of letters some signification appropriate to that from which they are formed. When Pilate asked, "Quid est veritas?" (What is truth?) he probably had no idea that his question answered itself, but it did. The transposition made it, "Est vir qui adest" (It is the man who is here). Anagrams were written as early as 250 B. C., and their name comes from the Greek words ana (backward) and gramma (writing).

Where the Lady Was Going.

An official of a New England road told the following:

The ticket agents in the Boston office of our road are greatly troubled by patrons who, when wishing to purchase tickets, lay down a coin and neither tell where they are going nor how many tickets they want. This necessitates one or more questions on the part of the patient agent. One day a little elderly lady approached the window of the office, placing a large family umbrella on the slab, and, after fumbling nervously in her pocketbook, pulled out a quarter and laid it down without a word to the ticket seller.

"Where are you going, madam?" asked the ticket agent.

"Oh, I'm going to the doctor," was the tremulous reply.

An Apt Pupil.

A professor who, when asked a question, was in the habit of saying: "That is a very good point indeed. Look it up for yourself," was once much disgusted with a student who had failed to answer a very simple question. "Mr. Jones," said he, "I'm surprised that you, who are going to teach, cannot answer such an elementary question. Why, what would you do if one of your pupils were to ask it?" "Well, professor," replied the other, "if such a thing had happened before I came here I'm afraid I would have said plainly that I didn't know, but now I think I'd do just as you do and say, 'Look it up, my boy; look it up!'"

No Procrastination.

"Ethel," he whispered, "will you marry me?"

"I don't know, Charles," she replied coyly.

"Well, when you find out," he said, rising, "send me word, will you? I shall be at Mabel Hicks' until 10 o'clock. If I don't hear from you by 10, I'm going to ask her."—London Tit-Bits.

Simplicity.

I am convinced, both by faith and experience, that to maintain oneself on this earth is not a hardship, but a pastime, if we will live simply and wisely, as the pursuits of the simpler nations are still the sports of the more artificial.—Thoreau.

Seems Reasonable.

"What is the correct garb for a surgeon about to perform an operation?"

"A cutaway, I suppose."—Minneapolis Tribune.

I will not be concerned at men's not knowing me; I will be concerned at my own want of ability.—Confucius.

CITY OF UKIAH — THE HOME OF GOOD GOODS

BREEZY LETTER FROM AIBION

Albion, June 11.—The mill shut down Saturday night probably for two weeks to make some needed repairs, and owing to the strike of the sailors in San Francisco.

The yard is getting badly crowded and the present time will be a good opportunity to repair some of the damage by the great shake.

The Sotoyome is not one of the proscribed crafts so she came in Friday and unloaded a big six wheel freight locomotive for the Santa Fe railroad. It was quite a task to hoist her from the ship to the dock, but James Brett had charge of the operation so it is needless to say it was successfully accomplished.

The steamer Greenwood came from the south and arrived here Saturday, and her crew struck as soon as she came in, but a crew was furnished from the yard and wharf here and she sailed for San Francisco on Sunday, where she will probably have to remain until the strike is ended.

Just at this time such a disagreement and a stoppage of all steam schooners is a very deplorable misfortune, one might call it, for lumber is needed very much in the rebuilding of San Francisco.

It seems to me that the sailors are making a very grave mistake, as it not only impedes the resumption of business in San Francisco, but also prevents thousands of men from earning a living when they are anxious, willing and needy.

Miles Standish is still with us and he can be seen early and late here there and everywhere, directing new and needed improvements.

A matched game of baseball was played here on Sunday and was witnessed by a big crowd. Fort Bragg and Wendling furnished the contesting teams. It was a very exciting game and was won by Fort Bragg with a score of 5 to 4.

Our school closed Friday and Miss Buchanan went home to Greenwood, and Miss Lyons to Mendocino to spend their vacation.

Rev. Fox was called to Littleriver Sunday to deliver a funeral discourse over the remains of young Guptil, who was killed while working on the pile driver at that place Friday.

More rain, nearly every other day or night brings a shower. When will it let up and give us summer weather? The hills look as green as in March. Usually at this time of the year they are brown. Are the seasons changing?

Dr. Shaw, the dentist, is with us again and expects to remain until the mouths are filled with good teeth, gold, silver or bone. My teeth quit aching when he came to town.

The friends of L. R. Coon are searching for him through the mountains east of Greenwood and Point Arena. He has been living for the last few months at Orrs Springs. About two weeks ago he began talking and acting in an unusual manner. He would take his gun and go out on the hillside and spend most of his time waiting for an imaginary army. Last Saturday he obsered his old friend Bob Kerr coming up the road and he at once grabbed his gun and disappeared in the brush. He has been tracked to the Navarro river near Christine, when all trace of him was lost. Bob Kerr, Life Ball, Doe and Jack Daugherty and a number of others are searching day and night for him. Mr. Coon is an old coast resident and has a host of friends who will be sorry to hear of his disappearance. Prexy.

L. W. Babcock For Superintendent

Among the many political announcements the Dispatch has been called upon to make there is none that will bring more gratification to our readers, Democrats and Republicans alike, than the announcement of L. W. Babcock, who seeks the nomination for county superintendent of schools at the hands of the Democratic county convention.

Mr. Babcock has been identified with the educational interests of Mendocino county so long that it seems but fitting that a career so eminently successful should finally be crowned with the highest educational office in the gift of a grateful people who have appreciated his able efforts.

Mr. Babcock came to Mendocino county in 1882 and for two years taught the Littleriver school, which he relinquished to accept the principalship of the Ukiah grammar school. He was eminently succesful in this position and continued until 1893 when he resigned to accept the principalship of the Ukiah high school. In that position he fairly eclipsed his former record of successes, and made for himself a reputation througout the state as an educator. The unqualified success of the Ukiah high school from the very first has been due in no small measure to the untiring zeal and enthusiastic efforts of Mr. Babcock.

Throughout the county are scores of young men and women graduates who, in their efforts to better fit themselves in the battle of life, feel that the guiding hand that did more for them than seemed possible could be done was that of the indefatigueable worker at the head of the Ukiah high school. These young men will be among the most valiant supporters of that gentleman throughout the campaign as well as at the polls.

That he will make a good official goes without saying. His interests have been too long centered in Mendocino educational affairs for him to not have their welfare at heart, and no one who knows Mr. Babcock doubts for an instant that where his interests lie his exceptional talent and unflagging zeal will be there also. He will make an ideal officer and will continue to conduct that important office in the same satisfactory manner and with the ability that has signalized the work therein during the past two terms.

Emmet Donohoe Out For Sheriff.

In today's issue of the Dispatch is to be found the announcement of R. E. Donohoe as a candidate for the office of sheriff of Mendocino county, who has at last yielded to the solicitation of numerous friends and concluded to allow his name to come before the Democratic convention. Emmet Donohoe, as he is known to every man, woman and child in the county is the best known and most popular man in Mendocino today. Popular not because he is a hail fellow well met, but because his true worth, strict attention to his own duties and genial dispostion has made him a friend whenever he has met a stranger. The duties of his profession have taken him into every nook and corner of Mendocino county and brought him into contact with almost every resident. Jerry Donohoe, Emmet's father, filled this same office as acceptably as any man before or since and old time friends of the father are confident the son would do even better. Emmet's knowledge of the county and people, his personal popularity, his unswerving fidelity and withal his competency for inside clerical duties or the more arduous work afield would make him a peculiarly strong candidate—one that would certainly sweep opposition before him and also be a tower of strength to the entire ticket. The Democratic party would honor itself by honoring Emmet Donohoe with the nomination.

M. A. Thomas for Assessor

In this issue of the Dispatch appears the announcement of M. A. Thomas, who seeks the nomination for the office of county assessor, subject to the decision of the Democratic county convention. Mr. Thomas is almost too well known through the county to require an extended notice at our hands. His record as a faithful, competent and accommodating official during the time he has served the people of the county is known by everyone, and it is admitted that the county has most likely never had a better official in the place occupied by Mr. Thomas and to which he is seeking the nomination for re-election. During his long residence in the county he has been a man whose business transactions have been above reproach. He is a man without any of the fancy frills that catch well at first acquaintance only, but he has the sterling qualities that wear and are better appreciated as time goes on. Sturdy "Mike" Thomas has made an official that we are all proud of and the convention will make no mistake if it grants his desire.

INTERESTING CHAT FRAM WENDLING

Wendling, June 12.—The papers claim the earthquake moved us 800 miles north. We begin to believe it, as we are certainly getting a great deal of Oregon fog here. Now, we don't go much on earthquakes, but we hope if there should come another one it would take us back a little south.

We noticed Peter Franklin Duff and esteemed wife in our burg last Friday. He seemed to be booming the H. Marks ball team and taking orders for clothing on the side. He won't think the H. Marks team is it when we get a go with them.

We have quite a bunch of Ukiah sports here at presnt working in the mill and incidently learning the latest method of curing squirrel bacon.

Excitement is running high here over the disappearance of Mr. Coon. He took his rifle last Friday about 10 a. m. and struck up the mountain back of his saloon and they have not been able to get any trace of him since. We see Life Ball and Robert Kerr from Albion here today on the hunt for him.

The mill here is now certainly putting out some fine lumber. It has got down to steady work now with an average of 45,000 feet per day.

They are putting in a blower for the planing room. It seems funny they have to put in a tin blower in Anderson valley with the supply of human blowers they have here.

The Wendling Crescent base ball team crossed bats with the Fort Bragg team Sunday at Albion. We came out as usual second to the tune of 5 to 4, but it is no disgrace to get beat when you play in a nice clean game of ball like both teams put up. Not a single kick from either side in the entire game and both teams won the admiration of all the fans. Continue, boys, to put up clean ball and cut the kicking out. We expect to take the conceit out of Boonville if they ever give us a chance but they seem to be after everybody but us.

Sam Blevins, manager of the Wendling Crescents, had the misfortune to get his foot under the wagon wheel coming home from Albion last Sunday and now is laid up nursing a sore foot. Murphy.

A Good Suggestion

Mr. C. B. Wainwright of Lemon City, Fla., has written the manufactures that much better results are obtained from the use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy in cases of pains in the stomach, cholic and cholera morbus by taking it in water as hot as can be drank. That when taken in this way the effect is double in rapidity. "It seems to get at the right spot instantly," he says. For sale by J. R. Mathews Pharmacy.

"Now, Susie," said the teacher, "if your father should agree to work for $2.50 a day and at the end of six days should bring home $13, would that be right?"

Buy Hair at Auction?

At any rate, you seem to be getting rid of it on auction-sale principles: "going, going, g-o-n-e!" Stop the auction with Ayer's Hair Vigor. It certainly checks falling hair; no mistake about this. It acts as a regular medicine; makes the scalp healthy. Then you must have healthy hair, for it's nature's way.

HOW THE TIGER KILLS.

Never Faces His Prey, but Attacks from on the Flank.

I have taken considerable trouble to find out how tigers kill large game. Some time ago I was asked to go and see a full grown bullock that had been killed by a tiger. On examining it I found the animal had its neck broken, and there were claw marks on the nose and shoulder, but nowhere else. There was no doubt that the tiger had jumped at the bull and landed on the shoulder, and when the bull turned his head to gore the tiger the tiger must have put his claw out and with a sudden jerk broken the neck.

On another occasion I went to see a young buffalo which had been killed by a tiger and found the same thing had happened. There were slight teeth on the nose and also on the near shoulder, which clearly indicated that the animal had been killed in the same way. Malays who have actually seen a tiger killing a buffalo told me they saw the same thing happen; also that in dragging off a heavy carcass, such as buffalo or bull, he gets in front of the weight across his shoulder.

This must be fairly correct, as I have often followed a kill, and the marks left indicate that only a portion of the animal was trailing along the ground. I have known a full grown bull, which ten men could not move, dragged for two miles by a tiger in a heavy jungle, where roots of trees and swamp had to be gone through. In no case have I seen the prey moved except the wrong way except when stopping to feed, which proves he must carry a portion of the animal over his shoulder.

The old idea of a tiger killing large game by a blow from his paw is nonsense; besides, in India a tiger never faces his prey, but attacks him on the flank unless charged. Another curious fact that may seem very like a fairy tale is that a tiger does not seem to mind a small lamp being tied over a kill about ten feet high, but will come and feed. I have known three occasions when this has been tried, and each time a tiger has come to feed upon the carcass.—London Field.

Shifting the Blame.

It is the custom of the Khonds in the Madras presidency to offer a buffalo sacrifice in substitution for the human victim, but in doing so they make long apologies to the deity, explaining that they themselves would willingly make the customary sacrifice, but are prevented by the British government, whose head they pray that any anger at their neglect of duty may be spared.—Calcutta Englishman.

The Paradox.

Hamand—Since Walker Tighs inherited $1,000,000 he is a paradox. Eggs—What's the answer? Hamand—He is both the richest and poorest man on the stage.—Chicago News.

Excess of levity is an impertinent excess of gravity.—Hazlitt.

CHLOROPHYLL.

To This Substance Is Due the Coloring of Plants.

Chlorophyll is perhaps the most important coloring substance in the world, for upon this substance depend the characteristic activity of plants, the synthesis of complex compounds from carbon dioxide and water process, upon which the existence of all living things is ultimately conditioned. Only in a very few unimportant forms devoid of chlorophyll can the synthesis of complex from simple compounds or from the elements be accomplished. The function of chlorophyll may only be comprehended when its chief physical properties are understood. These may be best illustrated by placing a gram of chopped leaves of grass or geranium in a few cubic centimeters of strong alcohol for an hour.

Such a solution will be of a bright, clear green color, and when the vessel containing it is held in such a manner that the sunlight is reflected from the surface of the liquid it will appear blood red, due to its property of fluorescence, that of changing the wave length of the rays of light of the violet end of the spectrum in such a manner as to make them coincide with those of the red end. It is by examination of light which has passed through a solution of chlorophyll, however, that the greatest insight into its physical properties may be gained. If such a ray of light is passed through a prism and spread out on a screen, it may be seen that there are several large intervals or dark bands in the spectrum. The rays of light which would have occupied these spaces have been absorbed by the chlorophyll and converted into heat and other forms of energy. This energy is directly available to the protoplasm containing the chlorophyll, and by means of it the synthesis of complex substance may be accomplished.

According to Horsepower.

A young nobleman, endeavoring to convince a country innkeeper that the decay of coaching was more than compensated for by the spread of motoring as a pastime, exclaimed, as a final argument, that his car was of forty horsepower, "the equal, sir, of ten relays of coach horses."

The next morning he read in his bill, "To feeding and stabling, 80 shillings."

He asked the landlord for an explanation.

"The charge for 'osses is 2 shillin' a 'ead, sir," was the reply. "That machine of yours is equal to forty 'osses, which is 80 shillin'." — London Express.

Onions.

Onions are almost the best nervine known. No medicine is so useful in cases of nervous prostration, and there is nothing else that will so quickly relieve and tone a wornout system. Onions are useful in all cases of coughs, colds and influenza, in consumption, insomnia, hydrophobia, scurvy, gravel and kindred liver complaints. Eaten every other day, they soon have a clearing and whitening effect on the complexion.

A STORY OF WEBSTER

ONE OCCASION WHEN DANIEL WAS DEEPLY HUMILIATED.

An Incident Which Shocked and Surprised Him Into Tears—The Admiration, the Loyalty and the Generosity of His Circle of Friends.

The following incident in the life of Daniel Webster was related to the writer by the late Joshua Seward:

Mr. Seward came to Woburn from Boston in the early seventies and bought a farm, where he lived until his death in 1885. He was a native of the New Hampshire "Peace City," from which place he came to Boston in early manhood and later engaged in the livery business off School street. He was a genial, social, active young man, and in a short time many of the business and professional men of the city were his friends and patrons. Daniel Webster, then in the fullness of his masterly manhood, was his particular friend and most favored patron. One year Webster early engaged to deliver the Fourth of July oration in the city.

A public procession was then an important feature of the celebration, and the orator of the day was the chief person of distinction in the parade. In those days there were no four wheeled vehicles for convenience or for pleasure. A chaise was the proper carriage for gentlemen to use. Webster was popular and proud as popular. He saw no chaise in the city as good as he desired to appear in on that important occasion, and therefore he ordered one to be built by the principal carriage maker of the city (Sargent, I think it was), to be ready for use on that day. In the morning of the Fourth he appeared at Seward's stable office and requested Seward to go to the carriage shop and get the chaise he had ordered. Seward harnessed a horse and went to the carriage shop as directed and told the proprietor he had come for Mr. Webster's chaise. The proprietor in firm and measured tones that could not be misunderstood asked, "Did Mr. Webster send the money to pay for the chaise?"

In relating this to me Seward said: "I was never so astonished in my life! I should have been less surprised if he had raised his fist and knocked me down. I had no thought that there was a man living who had ever heard of the great Webster, the godlike Daniel, who would or who could have denied him any request it was possible to grant. I could only say, 'He sent no money by me.' 'Then,' said the proprietor, 'tell him he can have the chaise when he sends the money to pay for it and not till then.'" Seward said he was never in such a dilemma in all his life. He could not go back and tell that great man, whom he adored, that he could not have the chaise till he paid for it. And yet he must go back and tell him something. But what could he tell him? Finally, after much thought and study it occurred to him that he had a new chaise which he would offer to Webster and tell him that the varnish on the one he had ordered was not yet hard and that it would be liable to injure if taken out in the heat and dust of that public day. Webster met Seward at the door when he returned, and before Webster could ask a question Seward was telling him the story he had invented on the way home. Webster made no reply, but accepted Seward's statement as true and rode in his chaise that day.

About a week later Webster came again and said to Seward, "I think the varnish on that chaise is hard now, and you may go down and get it." Seward said: "With a heavy heart I harnessed a horse and went again to the shop. I knew I should not get the chaise, and I was not disappointed. In the same manner I was asked the same question as before. I could not invent another story that would be credible and was therefore compelled to go back and tell him the truth." Webster was impatiently awaiting Seward's return, and when in hailing distance he called to Seward: "Where is the chaise? What is the trouble?" Seward approached him more closely and in tones so low that no one could overhear him replied, "He told me to tell you that you could have the chaise when you sent the money to pay for it and not before." Webster stood silent an instant and then with voice trembling with emotion exclaimed, "My God, Joshua, did he say that?" and sank into a nearby chair and cried as would a deeply aggrieved child of six summers.

It is well known that Webster would incur debt, apparently with no thought that there were two parties to a contract, a creditor and a debtor, and that their moral obligations were coequal. Consequently his creditors so multiplied and his indebtedness so increased as to interfere with his political plans, if not, indeed, threaten his political future. At this time his friends came to his aid and, it is said, raised the sum of $40,000 to cancel his indebtedness and relieve him from the further annoyance and pressure of his creditors. When we realize that $40,000 was a larger sum to raise then for any purpose than would be $200,000 today we have some measure of the admiration and the loyalty of his friends.—H. C. Hall in Boston Transcript.

Just So.

"I thought you said you couldn't live without me," sneered the girl.

"So I did," answered the man.

"Yet you're living."

"No; I'm not. Just boarding; that's all."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

John Hunter, the famous anatomist, once said that the feminine love of conversation was a consequence of a peculiarity in brain tissue.

TELESCOPES.

The Difference Between Reflecting and Refracting Kinds.

A very pretty little experiment which illustrates the two methods of forming an optical image and by way of corollary illustrates the essential difference between refracting and reflecting telescopes may be performed by any one who possesses a reading glass and a magnifying hand mirror. In a room that is not too brightly illuminated pin a sheet of white paper on the wall opposite to a window that by preference should face the north or away from the position of the sun. Taking first the reading glass, hold it between the window and the wall parallel to the sheet of paper and a foot or more distant from the latter. By moving it to and fro a little you will be able to find a distance corresponding to the focal length of the lens, at which a picture of the window is formed on the paper. This picture, or image, will be upside down because the rays of light cross at the focus. By moving the glass a little closer to the wall you will cause the picture of the window to become indistinct, while a beautiful image of the houses, trees or other objects of the outdoor world beyond will be formed upon the paper. We thus learn that the distance of the image from the lens varies with the distance of the object whose image is formed. In precisely a similar manner an image is formed at the focus of the object glass of a refracting telescope.

Take next your magnifying or concave mirror, and, detaching the sheet of paper from the wall, hold it nearly in front of the mirror between the latter and the window. When you have adjusted the distance to the focal length of the mirror, you will see an image of the window projected on the paper. By varying the distance as before you will be able to produce at will pictures of nearer or more remote objects. It is in this way that images are formed at the focus of the mirror of a reflecting telescope.

SUBMERGED GUNS.

The Experiment of Firing a Cannon Buried Under Water.

The most curious experiment ever made with a piece of ordnance was at Portsmouth, England. A stage was erected in the harbor within the tide mark. On this an Armstrong gun of the 110 pound pattern was mounted. The gun was then loaded and carefully aimed at a target—all this, of course, during the time of low tide. A few hours later, when the gun and the target were both covered with water to a depth of six feet, the gun was fired by means of electricity. We said "aimed at a target," but the facts are that there were two targets, but only one was erected for this special experiment, the other being the hull of an old vessel, the Griper, which lay directly behind the target and in range of the ball. The target itself was placed only twenty-five feet from the muzzle of the gun. It was composed of oak beams and planks and was twenty-one inches thick.

In order to make the old Griper invulnerable a sheet of boiler plate three inches thick was riveted to the waterlogged hull in direct range with the course the ball was expected to take if not deflected by the water. On all of these—the oaken target, the boiler plates and the old vessel hull—the effect of the shot from the submerged gun was really startling. The wooden target was pierced through and through, and the boiler iron target was broken into pieces and driven into its "backing," the ball passing right on through both sides of the vessel, making a huge hole, through which the water poured in torrents. Taken altogether, the experiment was an entire success, demonstrating, as it did, the feasibility of placing submerged guns in harbors in time of war and doing great damage to the vessels which an enemy might dispatch to such points for the purpose of shelling cities.—London Spectator.

The Sacred Bo Tree.

On the night of Oct. 7, 1887, the tree worshipers of Ceylon met with an irreparable calamity. During one of the worst storms that ever raged on the island their sacred bo tree was thrown to the ground. The oldest written description of this wonderful tree known to exist is that by Fa Hiam, a Chinese historian and traveler, who visited the tree in the year 414 A. D. According to the learned Chinaman, it was then 702 years old, having been planted by King Devinipiatissa in the year 288 before our era began. If the above data be correct, and there is no reason for doubting it, the bo tree was more than 2,175 years old when the storm ended its career on the date mentioned above.

Would Tax Corporations

Writing from Sacramento under date of June 9th. Ed. H Hamilton in the Examiner says:—

The Democrats in the Legislature today gave their party an issue on which to go before the people. That is the taxation of corporations. The two parties divided finally on the question of whether the corporations shall be lightly or heavily taxed, the Republicans standing for light taxation, the Democrats for heavy. Now the Democrats propose to make the issue the leading one in their party platform.

Sanford of Mendocino led the Democratic fight in the Senate and Prior of Kings was the champion in the Assembly. Of course the few Democrats were entirely snowed under when it came to a vote, but they made a party issue just the same—and a very good one at that.

The Republicans in the Legislature at its last sitting voted to levy a tax of $10 on all corporations. When the recent catastrophe came along and more money was needed, the Republican plan was to increase this taxation from $10 to $20. And this was the scheme that the Republicans put through today.

But the Democratic plan, fought for at the last session and advocated today, was for a real tax on corporations—not a trifling charge of $20 a year. The Democrats want the tax graduated so the big corporation will have to pay more than the little one. That sounds reasonable, and that is why it is going to make a good issue in the campaign before the people.

West Virginia found the graduated corporation tax so necessary that it had a special session of the Legislature to pass the bill fixing it. The plan proposed by the Democrats today was in all essentials the West Virginia plan; but the Republicans would have none of it. They insisted on taxing the little prune drying corporation of the horticulturists just as much as the over-bloated London corporation doing such a business that the total receipts of the prune dryers wouldn't buy its stamps. The great and the small pay the same tax of $20 a year.

The Democratic scheme provides for a graduated license tax as follows:

Corporations whose capital stock is less than $25,000, $10 a year tax; corporations whose capital stock is more than $50,000, $20 a year; corporations whose capital stock is more than $50,000 and less than $100,000, $40; corporations whose capital stock is more than $100,000 and less than $250,000, $100; corporations whose capital is more than $250,000 and less than $500,000, $200; corporations whose capital stock exceeds $1,000,000, $500.

"If they really were sincere in wishing to raise emergency revenue they would have accepted our plan," said Senator Sanford. "Under the Democrtic scheme of taxation we would raise over $1,000,000 a year, against $250,000 a year under the Republican plan. Why, I found English corporations doing buisness here who are capitalized as high as $168,000,000; and it seems preposterous to tax such corporations exactly the same amount as a little corporation of a few farmers in a California town. Under our plan we would raise between $250,000 and $400,000 from foreign corporations that come in here and pay nothing in, but drain a great deal of money from the state."

"We made this same fight at the regular session, but the Southern Pacific came in that time and beat us out. Now I propose to go before the Democratic State Convention and try to get a plank in the platform pledging the party to a graduated corporation tax. I think it will make a popular issue. The amendments I proposed are taken from the existing laws of West Virginia and Delaware, so there can be no doubt of their legality."

Sanford and Prior both offered amendments for the graduated tax of one-tenth of one per cent on the capital stock—the Delaware law being one-eighth of one per cent. But this amendment was voted down like the other one; and now it is a political cinch that the Democratic orators will make this corporation tax one of the most resounding issues of the coming campaign All of which goes to prove that while there may be very few Democrats in this Legislature—seven out of about of 110—they are very wide awake politically.

What Happened to the Editor

The editor of a weekly paper published in a small town in Missouri announced that for one issue he would tell the truth. Among other items were the following:

"John Doyle, our groceryman, is doing a poor business. His store is dirty, dusty and notoriously odoriferous. How can he expect to do much?

"Rev. Stytz preached Sunday night on "Charity." The sermon was punk. If the reverend gentleman would live up a little closer to what he preaches he would have bigger congregations."

"Dave Shankey died at his home in this place Saturday. The doctor gave it out as heart failure. The fact is he was drunk and the whiskey is what killed him. His house was a rented shack on Roudy street."

"Married—Miss Selvia Rhoden and James Carnahan last Saturday evening at the Baptist parsonage. The bride is a very ordinary girl, who does not know any more about cooking than a rabbit, and never helped her mother three days in her life. She is not a beauty by any means, and has a gait like a fat duck.

The groom is well-known as an up-to-date loafer. He has been living off his folks all his life, and doesn't amount to shucks. They will have a hard life while they live together, and we have no congratulations to offer, for we don't believe any good can come of such a union."

MILLIONS RETURNED TO EAST

Chicago banks report that approximately all of the money sent by them to the Pacific coast immediately after the San Francisco disaster has been returned through shipments and the restoration of the balances.

The disaster occurred on April 18, and Chicago banks were immediately appealed to for aid. Financial institutions not only in California, but of the entire Pacific coast, borrowed funds in large amounts and such of them as carried local balances drew on them heavily. For this reason the exact amount of money sent west as a direct result of the disaster cannot be estimated accurately, but it is figured that not less than $10,000,000 was sent.

Within a fortnight funds began to work back to Chicago. The movement at first was of little consequence, but as the western banks began to recover from the panicky conditions, the restoration of funds to Chicago was carried on with increased activity, and the return flow has been steady for some time.

An Editor's Wedding

The editor of the Gaylord, Oklahoma, Sentinel, wrote an account of his own wedding in his paper the other day: This is the first instance in several years of newspaper work that the writer has dared to tell the truth about a wedding for fear of getting licked, and does so now with keen relish. The bridegroom is an editor, and is not a popular and accomplished leader in society—in fact, he doesn't know as much about it as a rabbit. His hair is red and the freckles on his face crowd each other for room. In the dusk it is hard to distinguish him from a telephone pole. He has never considered that the future looked very bright or promising—it has always kept him too busy paying his board bill to have any dreams about future greatness. He is just a common sort of a fellow and claims distinction only in that he is a Kansan from the soles of his clumsy feet to the top of his head. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. J. White, and was born and raised in the Solomon Valley. Judging from the job she has taken on her hands, she is a lady of more than ordinary nerve."—Exchange.

"Pluto" Writes of State Political Affairs

San Francisco, June 15.—The insurance situation this week has cleared very much. The larger companies have decided to pay dollar for dollar and to pay it soon. Many of the smaller companies will follow suit and it will not be long before the deadbeat or bankrupt organizations will be right out in the open. If a disposition to pay in full is shown and the people are sure that the companies are solvent it will be a case of the savings banks over again and many of the policy holders will not want all their money at once. Delay and insult will be succeeded by courtesy and confidence.

The special session of the legislature of 1906 will long be remembered. It was so different from all other sessions. Usually when it is announced that the legislature is going to meet the average citizen has that sinking feeling about the heart while the corporations begin to look up the addresses of successful lobbyists. This time there was nothing of that kind. The real leaders got to the front at once and managed to stay there until adjournment. On the whole the legislation was good. There was no scandal and very little faultfinding and nearly every lawmaker in attendance can safely go back to his district with the surety of re-election.

It is to be hoped that the government will favor the plan of Senator Shortridge to make Goat island a union railroad terminal. We need it now more than ever. A five-minute ferry ride to connect us with the east would mean millons saved to this city. We want it and the Senator seems to want it but do the railroads want it? Shortridge forgot to ask.

A sensible supervisor, who by the way is a bachelor, objects to the present plan of having four or five municipal buildings. He wants everything done in one building and that is the reason he is sensible—not because he is unmarried. He thinks that a man should be able to get a marriage license in one room go to the next floor and get married, and then into the next room and get a divorce—that is, if he repents as quickly as that. The supervisor is altogether too speedy. He should at least give the man a chance to walk around the block before he got the divorce.

All bridal paths lead to this city. The brides all want to see the lovely ruins and the husbands acquiesce. An experienced spotter at the ferry tells me that the honeymoon arrivals are more numerous than ever before. The men like it because it is not so expensive as it used to be. One young husband stood on Nob Hill and pointing out the St. Francis said: "There is where we were to stop, dearie, had it not burned out." The lady was pensive a moment and then recovering from her disappointment said: "We'll stop there a good long time, lovie, when we get back from Japan."

The health department has found 5000 families of germs to the square atom in our well water and it is proposed to seal the wells and force us to Spring Valley. Most of us are reconciled to anything after two months of the abominable liquids called "soft drinks." To show the desperation of many there was a numerously signed protest against the health officer returning any of the carloads of castor oil sent by Seattle.

A high priced syndicate editorial writer has taken another fall out of us. Last week he said that we must be miserable and make everyone around us miserable in order to cause the world to progress. Now he says that we are only ants on the earth's surface and that we have been crushed by "cosmic law." To prove this he writes all around a big mastodon hoof large enough to cover Market and Third streets. This is what is popularly known as giving us "the foot." Next week he will prove that the habit of chewing wooden toothpicks cause the earhtquake.

A pint of Oakland whiskey killed a boy and twenty-five gallons of Kentucky firewater when poured into a stream made thousands of fish so silly that they were easily caught, and yet our supervisors hesitate about high license. Alameda, Marin and San Mateo counties daily contain more drunkards than this city ever did. The motto in Oakland now is "go as far as you please so long as you don't break the furniture."

The debris is moving at last and the dirt is flying on Geary street, but in all candor it must be confessed that the wind is the motive power. Stores can hardly open in the burned district with the certainty that the merchandise will be covered with several inches of dust. We have always been clean in the past and we intend to be so in the future and unless some prompt measures are taken to keep the dust where it belongs we'll stick to Fillmore street and the ocean beach.

Justus Wardell, of the Journal of Commerce, is a cheerful man. I met him the other day on his return from the east and he was brimming over with the hope of good things to come. He lost his plant in the fire and at once started east to get a new one. For the present he thinks it wise to sleep in Marin county but he intends to work and eat in San Francisco. Disaster shook twenty pounds of flesh from him but he says that saves training expenses. As long as earthquakes come in the night he thinks as many do that it is better not to be caught napping, that is, off the ground floor.

Some people maintain that earthquakes have driven the patent medicines out of business. It is said that seismic disturbances cure all the ills of the flesh. Rheumatic persons and cripples now walk briskly and the French dinner stomach absorbs ham and eggs as though it liked it. It is authenticated that a society editor walked four miles on the morning of the earthquake who had not walked four blocks for a year. Phil Hastings, theatrical impressario, is out with the statement that the earthquake performed a wonderful physical act with him and no one as yet has been able to controvert him. Pluto.

It Was Diphtheria

There was some question in some quarters as to whether a recent case of sickness in town was really diphtheria, as diagnosed by the physician in attendance, and to satisfy the doubting Thomas the services of an expert were secured. The report is as follows:

San Francisco, June 5.—Dear Doctor: Your letter arrived yesterday, which explained why the culture showed no growth. The sol. of chloride of lime and borolyptol and peroxide of hydorgen inhibited all growth of germs. I made a section next of the tissue and stained it by Gram. It then showed Klebs-Loeffler bacilli, streptococci and staphylococci in large numbers, which establishes the diagnosis of diphtheria absolutey. I enclose the bill for the swab examinations and also the tissue examinations at the usual price.

Yours truly,

F. G. Canney,

Pathologist of S. F. Board of Health.

Publishes Their Names

The town board of trustees has hit upon a novel, and at the same time effective, method of stopping the alleged sale of liquor to minors in the Ukiah saloons. A list of the minors who are said to cause the saloon-keepers to violate the law by falsely stating their ages to be over twenty-one has been printed, together with their actual age. This is said to have been given to every saloon-keeper in town, with the warning accombanying it. The list is said to contain the names of several young men whose mature appearance has enabled them to fool the unsuspicious "bar-keep" with immunity.

During the month of May there were seventeen marriage licenses issued and two suits begun in the superior court. The total fees in the clerk's office amounted to $71.56. This was perhaps the dullest month for years, made so of course by the long-continued holidays.

Asylum Contracts Awarded

Yesterday the diritors of the Mendocino state asylum met and opened the bids for supplies for that institution for the ensuing year. Among the local bidders were C. P. Smith and Edwards Brothers, whose bid on beef was 6.70 cents a pound. The contract, however, went to the Fairbanks Meat Co., of Willits at the bid of 7 cents. While the local bidders' price was lower on beef than the successful bidder, the latter's entire meat list totaled less than that of the local dealers. But the advertisements for bids states that each article shall be bid upon separate, and heretofore contracts have been awarded in that manner. With the Ukiah bidders the query then naturally arises, why did the contract go to the highest bidder?
